Message from Our President

When September arrives, I start to think about Rosh Hashanah. Particularly this year, as I start my second year as president of Federation, the symbol of the round Challah, which represents the cyclical nature of the year, was significant to me. This time last year, the officers, chairs and I were in the midst of setting goals, planning programs and trying to visualize how to continue a vibrant and relevant Federation.

Now as I reflect on all we did, I feel so proud of our officers, committee chairs, volunteers and all those who have supported Federation. In an effort to address issues of major concern, we had programs on cyber security, anti-Semitism on college campuses and women's health care inequities. We went to Annapolis and met with some of our representatives and discussed issues of concern as well as bills that were related to the Federation's resolutions.

Our convention theme reflected the renewed women's empowerment and the upcoming hundred-year anniversary of women getting the right to vote. Our E.B. Hirsh recipient, Dr. Nancy Aiken, and our individual "Women Who Empower" honorees demonstrated the strength of our Jewish women and their commitment to their organizations and community. In June, at our President's Receptions for incoming presidents and vice presidents of our member organizations, we welcomed an excellent trainer, Bev Rosen, who conducted a program on team empowerment.

What does this have to do with a round challah? Just as challah represents continuing on with the cycles in our lives, so do we continue to do what we must to support the mission of Federation. As my second year begins, we start anew to plan for the upcoming 2019/2020 year. We have been busy planning wonderful and meaningful programming.

Our opening meeting will highlight Baltimore County's new police chief, Melissa Hyatt. She is the first woman and the first Jewish person to hold the position of Chief of Police in Baltimore County. We are so honored that she will come to address our group and tell us about her vision for public safety in Baltimore County. In November, speaker Joyce Garczynski will enlighten us on the subject of "Fake News--How Do We Tell Fact From Fiction." This is definitely a hot topic.

Education is one way we support our community. We also continue to encourage our constituent groups to share their events with each other by posting them in The Flame in the "Under the Umbrella" section as well as on the website. We can all support each other and learn from each other which is Federation's mission.

Another goal is to keep reaching out to our member organizations so that we can meet their needs and provide resources and information. We want to increase our Friend's membership so that we can communicate more with those who want to know about our programs and who wish to support us. Federation continues to advocate on issues of major concerns to the Jewish community. I urge anyone who feels that there is an issue which should be addressed by Federation to bring it to our attention. To stay vital, we must come together. We ask that those who would like to be involved in helping with Convention, programming, have skills in social media or publicity, to please contact us. Many of our leaders have come to serve on Federation's leadership team after completing their organization's leadership responsibilities. We welcome you. Finally, we hope to continue to add to our Federation community by enlisting new member organizations in the Baltimore region, including Howard County.

I would be remiss if I did not thank everyone who has contributed and continues to work to make Federation a relevant and important part of the Maryland community. I look forward to seeing you throughout this upcoming year and wish you a Shana Tova- Happy New Year!! May you be inscribed in the Book of Life.

Linda Boteach- President

103rd Convention—Revisted

Thanks to a wonderful committee, Federation’s 103rd Convention was a great success. What a beautiful day! Our morning speaker, Patricia Wirth, Executive Director/CEO of the Turning Point Suffragist Memorial, was very interesting, informative and well received by the audience. Virginia Kase, CEO of the League of Women Voters of the United States, spoke on “The Power of Women.” Her presentation was enlightening and related well to our theme, “Women Who Empower: Past, Present, Future.” The menu was perfect and the food delicious. Congratulations to our well deserved E.B. Hirsh Award winner Dr. Nancy Aiken and our honorees.

Save the date for Federation’s 104th Convention on May 21, 2020.

Edie Meyers and Maxine Kontoff, co-chairs

President's Reception

In June, Federation's officers and past presidents hosted the annual President's Reception for the presidents and vice presidents or their representatives of our constituent organizations. This event was an opportunity to meet the organizations' leadership teams and learn of their concerns as well as highlighting Federation's mission.

The session informed the group of the publication of Federation's newsletter, The Flame; the web site that is available to their members and the community; Federation's calendar of events for the coming year; the Friend's program; and the opportunities available to learn and to take part in leadership training. As part of leadership training, we welcomed Bev Rosen, MSW/MBA, who spoke to the assembly on "The ABCs of Team Empowerment." Her presentation guided the organizations to recognize the important contributions leaders can attain in order to reach their goals.

The group broke for a delicious and extensive lunch, during which all of us took advantage of the person-to-person conversation. Federation thanks all those who attended and encourages the groups to convey the knowledge they received to their members.

Opening Meeting—Future and Challenges of Policing

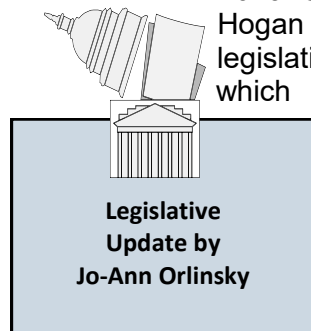

The September Opening Meeting will take place on September 19, 2019 at North Oaks Retirement Community, 725 Mount Wilson Lane, Pikesville Maryland from 9:30-11:30 am. Federation is very proud to have as our featured speaker the new Baltimore County Police Chief, Melissa Hyatt. Her talk will focus on the Future and Challenges of Policing. She is the first female and first Jewish Police Chief of Baltimore County Police. She has a very impressive resume with over 20 years of law enforcement experience with the Baltimore Police Department including many leadership roles and other experiences. A continental breakfast will be served (dietary laws observed).

Social Action: Bring school supplies and Kleenex.

The registration deadline is Monday, September 9, 2019. RSVP to CeCe Rund, 410-429-5411.

Federation—Legislative Update—August 2, 2019

We now know the results of the legislation passed by the 2019 General Assembly. Governor Hogan vetoed eight pieces of legislation, none of which were bills which Federation picked as our priorities. Nevertheless, the first order of business for the legislature when it convenes in January, will be to determine whether any of the vetoes should be overridden.

While the Governor signed many bills, he also permitted many other bills to become law without his signature, including the Prescription Drug Affordability bill.

Of our priority bills, the following did not pass the legislature: salary information disclosure, protective orders for victims of rape and sexual offenses, Maryland funding for family planning providers under Title X, and a bill directing the Maryland Health Department to refuse to accept federal Title X money if it contains restrictions on information medically approved for family planning methods and services.

The following bills did pass the General Assembly: increases in the state minimum wage, child support for post secondary education, jurisdiction of the Court restrictions on solitary confinement for pregnant women and juveniles and the establishment of a summer snap program.

The following bills were greatly revised: expansion of the Maryland law on vacating convictions to include prostitution; HIV prevention for rape survivors became a pilot project until costs are determined; and the changes to the Prescription Drug Affordability Act limit the authority of the Board set-up under the act.

As in many other states this year, there has been a push to eliminate or severely restrict access to abortion and to women's health clinics. During the session, 16 anti-choice bills were defeated, such as: requirements for physicians to report to the state, 24-hour waiting periods, fetal heart beat bills and prohibiting interstate trafficking of minors for abortion care. Jewish values respect the use of abortions under certain circumstances after consultation with one's doctor and one's rabbi. We have been very fortunate, so far, to have a compassionate and realistic legislature.

We will keep you posted on legislation as we get closer to January's legislative session.

Note: Maryland's primary election is on June 23, 2020.

Supporting Serv-A

While most of us were enjoying typical fun and leisurely summer activities, The Jewish Welfare Board (JWB) Jewish Chaplains Council continued its work on training chaplains. These military chaplains will be well prepared to provide religious services for all the upcoming High Holidays and Fall Festivals for our Jewish service personnel around the globe. Many of the roles chaplains undertake are not addressed in seminary or in military officer training.

The Jewish Welfare Board also trains numerous lay leaders, who step up to support and provide services to Jewish military personnel and their families. With religious services as well as the Jewish ritual and food supplies that the JWB sends around the world, a connection is formed for our Jewish military personnel that is an "antidote" to loneliness and other stressors of military life.

Please consider contributing to Serv-A (Serving Jews in the US Armed Services), Federation's only long-term social project. Contributions can be made by each organization or through individual donations. Donation forms are available on the website and at all meetings. Contributions to Serv-A go directly to the office of the Jewish Chaplains Council in New York. Thank you for thinking of our Jewish military personnel. For information or questions, contact Serv-A chair, Susan Grilli at 410-561-0906.
