“The empowered woman is powerful beyond measure…” Dr. Steve Maraboli
Time always seems to go so quickly. Purim has come and gone, but its meaning is forever relevant. We read the megillah which tells the story of Esther, a young Jewish woman who is a reluctant heroine. She became queen and kept her Jewish identity secret as instructed by her uncle. Initially, she was very reserved and obedient and did not think she could assume the role. But then, according to the Jewish Women’s Archive: “This crisis transforms Esther from a docile girl into a courageous leader. Taking charge of Mordecai’s effort to stop Haman, she devises a risky plan that uses her beauty, charm and political astuteness to save her people. In doing so, she reveals her true identity as both a Jew and a woman of action, and shows us how even people on the margins can marshal their talent, strength and wit to change the course of history.”

Federation is all about strong Jewish women. We have many diverse groups of women under our umbrella, but our Jewish values and beliefs bind us together. We are involved and interested in the world around us. We want to learn new things and speak out against injustice. We want to give Tzedakah and to repair the world. We want to make new friends and keep old friends. As Jewish women, we care about our world, big and small.

Federation’s leadership and Board sponsor programs and promote advocacy that reflect these values. This year our programs presented topics on cyber security, anti-Semitism, BDS movement on college campuses and women’s health inequity issues. We went to Annapolis and met our legislators to advocate for our issues. We learned about the historic women of Maryland.

We look forward to the upcoming 103rd Convention, where the theme is Women’s Empowerment: Past Present and Future. This topic reflects several current issues: the addition of many women who were elected to offices this year and who are attempting to make a difference; the recognition of the 100-year anniversary of women getting the right to vote; the Federation members who participated in the suffragist movement.

In keeping with the Convention theme, we will welcome to the morning program Patricia Wirth, Executive Director of The Turning Point Suffragists Memorial Association. She will highlight some of the courageous women who fought for the right to vote and suffered, including going to jail.

During the afternoon session, the keynote speaker will be Virginia Kase, CEO of The League of Women Voters. Next, Dr. Nancy Aiken will receive the E.B. Hirsh Lifetime Achievement Award. She is a woman who has achieved many things during her tenure as Executive Director of CHANA as well as collaborating with others to help many in our community. Finally, each organization will honor someone with the Women Who Empower Award.

As I read the Megillah during Purim, I thought about the women who are being honored at Convention. These are women leaders who became activists and thus empowered. We can learn something from the story of Purim about finding our inner strength to help ourselves, our families, our communities and our people. This is the legacy of Esther.

103rd Annual Convention

Federation’s 103rd Convention is just around the corner. Our theme for the day is Women’s Empowerment: Past Present Future. The day includes an enlightening morning program. Our morning speaker is Patricia Wirth, the Executive Director/CEO of The Turning Point Suffragist Memorial Association. Following a delicious catered lunch by Yaffa, our keynote speaker Virginia Kase, CEO of the League of Women Voters of the United States, will speak on “The Power of Women.” We look forward to presenting the E.B. Hirsh Award to Dr. Nancy Aiken. Culminating our Convention will be the presentation of the Women Who Empower Award to our honorees, one deserving woman from each of our constituent organizations. Join women and guests from the 28 participating Jewish Women’s Organizations of Maryland for an exciting day to learn and mingle and support your honoree.

See you on May 23, 2019 at 9:30 am to 3:00 pm at Temple Oheb Shalom. The cost is $40.00.

Understanding Maryland Legislation: Can Women’s Healthcare Be More Affordable?

As a woman’s organization, we are concerned about women’s health care in Maryland. On January 24, 2019, we sponsored a breakfast program at Beth Israel that centered around prescription drug affordability. We heard stories about women who juggle paying rent or getting prescriptions they desperately need for themselves or their children. We learned about diabetics who are experiencing serious medical problems because they can no longer pay for their insulin.

Our speaker, Catherine Kirk Robins, Deputy Director for the Maryland Citizen’s Health Initiative (MCHI), concentrates on issues surrounding prescription drug affordability. Ms. Kirk Robins played an integral role in mobilizing a broad coalition to support the passing of Maryland’s 2017 price-gouging law. She worked tirelessly to support MCHI’s goal of solving Maryland’s health care crisis so that all Marylanders can have access to quality and affordable health care. Ms. Kirk Robins told us how we can take an active role in getting our legislators to support and pass legislation to create a board to evaluate high cost drugs and set reasonable rates. A Trip to Annapolis

Almost 30 ladies, representing several of our organizations, traveled by bus to Annapolis on March 28, 2019 with the goal of watching our government in action. Arriving in Annapolis we walked to the State House to observe a legislative session where Federation was recognized from the floor by Delegate Shelly Hettleman. After observing a fast-paced session that included bills from the Judicial Committee and the Environmental Committee, we toured the magnificent State House. Our group then visited the Baltimore City Room in the State Delegate Building where we enjoyed a deli lunch while sitting in the chairs and at the tables used by the legislators.

Mistress Pat, dressed in period costume (from Watermark Tours), provided us with an historical perspective on important women in our Maryland history, who changed both government and lives in our state. Delegates Dana Stein and Jon Cardin dropped in to discuss some of the bills about which we were interested. Representatives from the offices of Mayor Pugh, Senator Ben Cardin and Congressman Andrew Harris also addressed us and answered questions. Delegate Shelly Hettleman caught us walking to the bus. Many of our ladies were able to speak with her. It was a fascinating day with beautiful weather and a comfortable bus ride. If you missed it this year...it is a MUST next time!
Six days from the end of the legislative session was not the time to predict what would happen to our bills of interest. Many bills would still be voted on until midnight of the last day, Monday April 8. Here is the status of three bills we have discussed previously or in our meetings.

Prescription Drug Affordability: This legislation, supported by Health Care for All and many other healthcare and community organizations, would establish a Prescription Drug Affordability Board which would ensure that high cost drugs are available for all Marylanders. The bill (HB 768) was amended to set “upper payment levels” and cut the power of the five member Board to reduce prices of drugs purchased only by health plans that serve employees of state and county governments. The original bill would have applied to all health plans. Opponents of the bill are calling it price control. The bill passed the House 98-40.

The bill is still in the Senate Finance committee, with six days to go to the end of the session. If the bill passes the Senate, with no further amendments, the Board will have a year to establish itself and could set upper limits by July 1, 2021. The Governor has not said whether he would sign such a bill. Then the big question becomes could the law survive legal challenges.

The Family Medical and Leave Insurance Program: This bill would have established a short-term disability insurance fund to provide partial wage replacement for employees who take up to 12 weeks of unpaid leave to care for a child or family member or their own serious medical condition. Seventy-nine percent of Maryland mothers are in the work force and only 13% have access to maternity leave. Twenty-three percent of new mothers go back to work after two weeks. However, House Bill 341 has not been voted out of committee. Remember that a new bill often takes several years to work through the legislature.

HIV Post-exposure Prophylaxis: Current law provides rape victims with free emergency medical treatment following an assault but does not pay for a preventive drug called n-PEP. Many are covered by health insurance, but co-pays are as high as $1,000. The drug must be given within 72 hours. Opposition to the bill was based on cost. The bills (HB1249/SB 657) were amended to create a pilot project which will provide data on the cost for possible expansion of the program. The bills passed the House 136-0 and the Senate 47-0.

Supporting Serv-A

The Jewish Welfare Board (JWB) Jewish Chaplains Council fosters and promotes a meaningful Jewish life for Jewish personnel in the U.S. military, their families, veterans and families of the fallen. JWB Chaplains are:
